Let my people go The lyrics of the song represent liberation of the ancient Jewish people from Egyptian slavery. In one interpretation of the song, "Israel" represents enslaved African Americans, while "Egypt" and "Pharaoh" represent the slavemaster.

Go Down Moses - Wikipedia

Exodus 5 begins with God’s representatives, Moses and Aaron, saying to Pharaoh, “Let my people go.” Pharaoh’s first response indicates where his heart was and why it would take tragedy to humble him. In verse 2, he says, “Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice and let Israel go?”

Why was Pharaoh so resistant to Moses’ pleas to “let my ...

Moses was born during tumultuous times, and then raised in the palace of Pharaoh but he had to flee to the wilderness where he was prepared for the difficult task ahead. Finally, after they had been in Egypt for 400 years God decided that His people needed to leave, and the man destined to lead them was Moses.
